ing its appeal. Thus, Lleida has confirmed its power as a destination for business tourism as the Parador has strengthened the framework for the socio-economic activity which occurs around La Llotja Conference Centre and generates the knowledge which is created every day in the Gardeny Science Park.

Lleida is a “City with Character”. This distinction, awarded to us by the Catalan Tourist Board, consolidates our city as a cultural tourist destination among medium-sized cities with a powerful historical and cultural personality. This award reflects the importance of culture as an element for highlighting the city, in turn boosting cultural tourism.

Coinciding with 2018, the Year of Cultural Tourism, Lleida will be celebrating a series of notable dates including the 75th anniversary of the death of pianist Ricard Viñes, the 50th anniversary of the foundation of the Petite Galerie, the 150th anniversary of the birth of linguist Pompeu Fabra, the 125th anniversary of the creation of the Diocesan Museum, now Museum of Lleida, and the centenary of the Cathedral or Seu Vella being declared a monument.

In this regard, progress is being made in the candidacy of the Turó de la Seu Vella or Cathedral as a UNESCO World Heritage site, focusing on the exceptionally unique universal values of this monumental complex, a symbol of peace and harmony.

The inauguration of the Parador de Turisme made it possible to restore Roser, one of the city’s most important historic buildings, undeniably increas-

The city of Lleida’s extensive offer is completed with the Templar Castle of Gardeny, the Lleida Climate Museum, the 13th-century Tanneries, the Jaume Morera Art Museum, the Arboretum Botanical Garden, the Modernist Route of the city of Lleida and the excavations at Call Jueu, which have brought to light a heritage hidden for centuries, revealing interesting finds as well as secrets of our history. These are but a few examples of the attractions provided by the city.

As regards tourism –present and future– we have potential, with extensive cultural assets of national interest, unique natural spaces and a prominent historical, cultural, enogastronomic and artistic personality which make Lleida the capital of inner Catalonia. Please do make the most of your stay and get to know this Lleida with Character, the city and its people, as well as the thousand and one possibilities, which show its worth as a capital and make it unique in many ways. We are delighted to welcome you to Lleida!

DECENTRALIZED MUNICIPAL INSTITUTIONS

Lleida is the capital of "el Segrià", a large county on the western edge of Catalonia that takes its name from the River Segre, which crosses the county. Lleida is the economic and demographic hub of inland Catalonia.

The streets of Lleida, with their rich historical and monumental heritage, also bear witness to the business activities and initiatives befitting a major modern city that looks towards the future.

Lleida is the capital of one of the most fertile areas in Europe and its agri-food industry is one of the main drivers of its economy. Many benchmark companies have their headquarters in Lleida, including a large number of R&D firms that have set up in the Gardeny Agri-Food

Science and Technology Park to take advantage of its international potential.

Come and savour the mix that makes up our attractive, interesting city. Get swept away by its age-old history, its impressive open spaces, and fresh, natural flavours... and don't forget to take a piece of it back home with you, because it's there for you.

HOW TO ARRIVE

There is an extensive public and private transport network for travelling to Lleida. The AVE high-speed train is a good alternative (Lleida is a member of the AVE Cities network). There is also a modern road network, including the AP2 Northeast motorway, the A2 Lleida-Barcelona motorway and the C25 motorway linking Lleida and Girona. Now, it is also possible to fly into Lleida-Alguaire airport.

Lleida-Alguaire Airport

URBAN TRANSPORT

The ATM coordinates the public transportation in the area of Lleida: bus, city and intercity, and rail. It also manages the integrated fare system: with a single card you can move throughout the area of Lleida (62 bus & train lines built). At certain times of the year, visitors can also see the sights on the Tourist Bus. Lleida has also a large fleet of taxis.

CLIMATE

Lleida's climate is continental, with hot summers and cold winters.

OPENING HOURS

SHOPS. Shopping is a real pleasure in Lleida. Its many shops of all kinds are open morning and afternoon from Monday to Saturday.

RESTAURANTS. Restaurants serve lunch from 1.30pm to 3.30pm and evening meals from 9 pm to 11pm every day, although they usually close Sunday night and Monday.

BANKS. Banks and savings banks are normally open to the public until 2 pm from Monday to Friday. And there are extensive networks of round-the-clock automatic teller machines.

Indibil and Mandoni, Ilerget leaders

THE ORIGINS...

...of the city of Lleida can be traced back some 2,500 years to the mid-6th century BC, when the Ilerget people, of Iberian extraction, settled in the area and established a small walled town on the Roca Sobirana (one of the three terraces of the ancient city). This early settlement was known as Iltirda or Iltirta, which with the passing centuries gradually evolved into the name by which the city is known today: Lleida.

The citizens of Ilerget led a more or less peaceful existence based around agriculture and livestock farming until invaders began to arrive. First to come were the Carthaginians, followed by the Romans. Both encountered resistance from the Ilerget people, who fought fiercely for their independence under leaders such as Indibil and Mandoni. After finally succumbing to the Romans, the Ilergets gradually became Romanized, and around AD 250 Iltirta became known as Ilerda.

Following the fall of the Roman Empire, the city fell into the hands of the Visigoths, who called it Lerita. It was occupied once again between 716 and 719, this time by the Arabs, who remained in what they called Larida for four centuries until October 1149, when Ramon Berenguer IV conquered the city and brought it under Catalan administration. The following year, Leyda was granted a Town Charter and became home to a great many people from the Pyrenean region of Pallars. Half a century later, in 1203, work began on the construction of one of the city's two cathedrals, the Seu Vella, a building that would become one of its most emblematic monuments. Construction was completed in 1431.

From the Low Middle Ages until the 15th century the city was notable for being the only centre of higher learning in the Kingdom of Aragon. The Estudi General University was founded in 1300 by King Jaume II. Another important development during Medieval times was the establishment of the city government in the former Sanaüja palace in 1382. From this moment on the building would be known as the Palau de la Paeria, and it remains the seat of the City Council to this day. Another major event towards the end of this period was the construction of one of the city's most beautiful buildings, the Former Hospital of Santa Maria, which has been the headquarters of the Institute of Lleidan Studies since the organization was created in 1942.

The Modern Age was largely marked by a period of recession. It was a time of disease and wars such as the Segadors Peasant Revolt, a popular uprising that lasted from 1640 to 1652. The city also lost its independence, as the Decree of Nueva Planta introduced by Felipe V in 1714 stripped Lleida of its university and its city government, while its most distinctive monument, the Seu Vella, was closed to worshippers and turned into a military barracks.

The city recovered in the end of the 18th century, when the first urban-restructuring processes took place under the Marquess of Blondel and the Baron of Maials, giving the city a new urban layout in keeping with its role as provincial capital. This was also the time of the Enlightenment, and the city saw the construction of its second cathedral under the reign of Carlos III.

Lleida once again encountered hard times during the first part of the 19th century and had to endure further ravages of war, this time at the hands of Napoleon.

Despite this, the city began to recover during the second half of the century, and the quality of life improved further for its inhabitants during the ensuing years, thanks among other things to the arrival of the railway (1860), the inauguration of the Camps Elisis Park (1864) and the introduction of the city's first modern development plan under the architect Josep Fontseré.

Lleida began the 20th century as part of the Mancomunitat de Catalunya, subsequently living through the turbulent events of the first part of the century and suffering terrible damage during the Spanish Civil War (1936-1939). Reduced to 40,000 inhabitants, a great deal of reconstruction work was required, though the difficult post-war years gradually gave way to a period of urban, commercial and demographic growth.

Today Lleida is a modern, well communicated city that has enjoyed high levels of growth and development over recent decades and currently boasts a population of about 140,000 people. The city's expansion on both sides of the River Segre has led to the emergence of a number of different districts, all of which are connected to the city centre via seven bridges: the Pont Vell (Old Bridge), the Pont Nou (New Bridge), the Pont de la Universitat (University Bridge), the Pont de Pardinyes (Pardinyes Bridge), Príncep de Viana Bridge, the Victoriano Muñoz Bridge, and the Liceo Escolar, Avenida del Segre and Maristes pedestrian walkways.

The early 21st century has witnessed a significant level of urban expansion and the introduction of many different kinds of facilities. Important events on the cultural live were La Llotja, Theatre and Conference Centre; the Museum of Lleida, which incorporates the County and Diocesan Museums, and the opening of the Suda Castle and Templar Castle of Gardeny. Other sites of cultural interest include the Roda Roda Museum, La Panera Art Centre, the Jaume Morera Art Museum, the Water Museum and the Marian Academy.

This broadening range of cultural facilities further adds to the city's allure, making it an essential destination for those who love art, culture, learning and history. Lleida is a must for anyone who wants to see a city that combines its Iberian, Roman, Visigoth, Arabic and Christian past with a modern, innovative and cutting-edge present.

SEU VELLA

The Seu Vella old cathedral, also known as “Lleida Castle”, is definitely the city’s most emblematic monument.

This unique cathedral sits on top of the hill overlooking the city and affords magnificent views of Lleida and the surrounding countryside of Segrià county. Construction of the cathedral began in 1203, but the bell tower was not completed until 1431. The first master builder was Pere de Coma. According to historians, the cathedral was built on top of a former Muslim mosque. The temple was the first building to be completed and was consecrated for worship in 1278 and dedicated to the Virgin Mary. It has a Latin cross floor plan with a nave and two aisles.

THE COMPLEX MADE UP OF THE SEU VELLA AND THE CASTLE OF THE KING - SUDA AND ITS SURROUNDING WALLED DEFENSIVE SYSTEM IS ON THE LIST INDICATIVE UNESCO TO BE DECLARED A WORLD HERITAGE SITE

THE OLD CATHEDRAL

The outstanding features of the interior include the stonework in the naves, which show the influence of the artisans from Tuscany, Toulouse and Provence who worked on the cathedral throughout the 13th century, as well as the remains of Gothic mural paintings. After the consecration of the temple, work continued into the 14th century, when the cloister was completed and construction work began on the bell tower and lasted until 1431.

The Seu Vella is a site of the 1714 Route, the War of the Spanish Succession.

THE CANONJA

The entrance to the Seu Vella is through the Canonja, the name given to the set of buildings that housed the priests and canons who made up the Chapter at the cathedral. These buildings date from the second half of the 12th century to the 16th century, and include the remains of the old church of Santa Maria l'Antiga, different chapels, the Pia Almoïna (canon's house), the Chapter room, the archive, and the Decanóa or Vault House.

THE DOORWAYS

Besides the current entrance doorway in La Canonja, there are other doorways of great cultural interest, such as the Anunciata doorway (13th century), the "Fillols" doorway (13th-14th centuries), the Sant Berenguer doorway (12th century), and the Apostles' doorway (14th-15th centuries), as well as the three doors from the cloister (13th century), which provide a clear example of the style of architectural sculpture known as the Lleida School.

THE CLOISTER

This 14th-century rectangular cloister is a unique, open cloister, located on the west side of the cathedral. It has a gallery with five ogival arches and elegant tracery windows that provide breathtaking views of the city and the countryside beyond.

THE BELL TOWER

The oldest bells are from the 15th century: They are called Silvestra, which rings on the hours, and Mònica, which rings on the quarter hours. The other five are

THE GARDENY ORDER OF THE TEMPLAR INTERPRETATION CENTRE IS A UNIQUE SPACE THAT OFFERS VISITORS THE CHANCE TO TAKE AN EXCITING JOURNEY INTO THE PAST AND LEARN MORE ABOUT ONE OF THE MOST INTERESTING AND CONTROVERSIAL COMMUNITIES IN LLEIDA'S HISTORY.

In the second half of the 12th century, the Order of the Knights Templar built a monastery complex on Gardeny Hill, a strategic raised outcrop that had frequently been used as a military camp, probably since Roman times.

In the 17th and 18th centuries the old Medieval complex was expanded and transformed into a new military fort, designed in response to the new defensive needs resulting from the introduction of artillery: walls flanked with bastions and surrounded by open spaces, moats and contention walls.

THE TEMPLAR CASTLE

TEMPLAR HOUSE OF GARDENY

(12th-14th centuries). After the conquest of the city of Lleida in 1149, the Knights Templar were given several properties, including Gardeny Hill, in payment for the help provided during the siege. The first reference to the command post at Gardeny dates from 1156 and the first commander was Brother Pere de Cartellà, who played an active role during the siege of the city. Thanks to many contributions made largely by the landed gentry, the Templar House of Gardeny amassed considerable wealth. In order to manage the different organizations that had been established, it became necessary to create new administrative positions and set up new command posts, such as those at Corbins and Barbens. As a result of this expansion, in the 13th century the Templar House of Gardeny became one of the Knights Templars' main administrative bases in the Kingdom of Aragon.

What can be seen today of this historical complex are the remains of the imposing castle which, together with the castles in Miravet, Monzón, Peníscola and the city of Tortosa, form part of the Domus Templi Knights Templar Dominions Route. This trip back into the past gives visitors a chance to get to know much of the Templar heritage in the old Kingdom of Aragon.

THE HISTORICAL COMPLEX

The historical complex at Gardeny is one of the most impressive examples of Knights Templar architecture in Catalonia during the second half of the 12th century.

Though extensive modification during the 17th and 18th centuries changed the layout of the former Medieval complex, many elements of the original structure still survive. Perimeter walls flanked by towers surround an inner space housing a number of buildings arranged around a central courtyard.

These buildings include the living quarters, a solid two-storey tower with several rooms, storage buildings, residential quarters and the Homage Tower. To one side is the Romanesque Church of Santa Maria de Gardeny, a singular building of great devotional significance in its day.

THE PAERIA PALACE

THE PALAU DE LA PAERIA IS THE SEAT OF THE CITY'S GOVERNMENT.

The building has two main façades; one of Medieval style looks out over Plaça Paeria, while the other, a 1929 neo-Medieval remodelling of the neoclassical structure, overlooks the River Segre. Built in the 13th century, it was given to the city by the Sanaüja family in 1383. The Paeria is the name given to Lleida City Council and it derives from the term paer (from the Latin patiar or man of peace), an honour conferred in 1264 by King Jaume I.

OUR LADY OF THE PAERS

The Paeria's grand chamber houses a 15th century Gothic altarpiece (1451 to 1454) which originally adorned the altar in the old chapel. It shows Mary flanked by Archangels Gabriel and Michael and surrounded by four "paers". (Room closed to the public, visitable with arranged visits).

THE DUNGEON

The city's jail was housed in the basement in 1486, with separate cells for men and women. La Morra was the name given to the chamber used to house prisoners who had been condemned to death, and graffiti carved by inmates during the 16th and 17th centuries can still be seen on the walls.

THE CITY ARCHIVE

The treasures held in the City Archive include a 14th-century Usage Book, the Cabinet of Privileges (a magnificent Baroque cabinet) and, of particular interest, the Carta Pobla or People's Charter, the first constitution for the citizens of Lleida, dating from 1150.

This tiny chapel, which was originally dedicated to Our Lady of the Snows, dates back to the time of the Muslim occupation and stands in what was then a Christian district. It is now dedicated to St. James the Apostle. Inside the chapel, which stands on the route taken by pilgrims travelling to Santiago de Compostela, you could admire the sculpture of St. James by Jaume Gort which is carried every year in procession throughout the streets on the eve of 24 July, St. James' day (see page 57).

Built in the Gothic-Plateresque style of the 15th and 16th centuries and used for many years as a hospital, this building faces the New Cathedral and looks out over the main street. One of its most striking features is the main façade, along with the array of shields emblazoned with Lleida's coats of arms.

A particular feature of this magnificent building is its beautiful central courtyard, where an imposing stone staircase leads to a splendid gallery of pointed arches.

This historic building is currently the headquarters of the Institute of Lleidan Studies, and its rooms and courtyard are used for a variety of temporary exhibitions.

THE TANNERIES

THE TANNERIES, LOCATED AT NUMBER 9 ON THE RAMBLA DE FERRAN AVENUE, ARE THE MOST ANCIENT AND THE BEST CONSERVED IN SPAIN.

Composed by two workshops, now restored as a part of six tanneries of the 13th century.

Both who have been recovered contain the canalization used in the Middle Ages, which gives the visitor a clear idea of the use of this essential element during the transformation process of the skin.

A dry or salt skin came to the workshop and became transformed into a soft, supple leather ready to be used to make gloves, hats...

The visit also shows an ancient water mine.

THE NEW CATHEDRAL

The New Cathedral was built between 1761 and 1781 with endowments from the people of Lleida, King Carlos III and Bishop Joaquín Sánchez. Built in the baroque style with hints of French academic classicism, the main entrance is topped with the coat of arms of the Borbon family.

A staircase leads to three arched doorways fitted with iron gates and flanked on each side by towers. Inside, the nave and two aisles are lined with slim Corinthian columns supporting rounded arches. The choir, created in the Baroque style by Lluís Bonifas Massó, was destroyed during the Spanish Civil War (1936).

The Cathedral houses a sculpture by Josep Obiols of Our Lady of Montserrat, the patron of Catalonia, whom pilgrims visit on 27 April each year. Also celebrated on 2 February each year is the feast of the Verge del Blau (or Bruised Virgin), named because of the damage done when its sculptor, finding that his apprentice had completed the work to a higher artistic standard than his own, threw a hammer at the finished work.

The New Cathedral is also home to the Chapter Archive, regarded as the richest ecclesiastical archive in Catalonia, with a collection of more than 13,000 books, 16,000 parchments and a huge number of codices and early manuscripts. One of the jewels in the collection is the Lleida Bible, an historic illuminated codex and the largest of the ancient Spanish bibles in existence. There is also a periodicals library, a music archive and a collection of maps and photographs.

SANT LLORENÇ

THIS CHURCH, WHICH ACTED AS THE DIOCESAN SEAT ON TWO SEPARATE OCCASIONS, WAS ORIGINALLY BUILT IN THE ROMANESQUE STYLE, THOUGH IT INCLUDES LATER GOTHIC ADDITIONS AND ORNAMENTATION.

Regarded as the most important religious building after the Seu Vella, it has a nave and two aisles, all of the same height, and three apses. The Romanesque central nave is the oldest, while the two aisles, along with the side chapels and octagonal bell tower, which was restored in 2002, are in the Gothic style (15th century).

Work on the original building, which began at the end of the 12th century, was carried out by sculptors and craftsmen who had worked with master architect Pere de Coma on the Seu Vella. The church houses some important Gothic altarpieces, the largest dedicated to Sant Llorenç himself. Others are dedicated to Santa Ursula (attributed to Jaume Cascalls), Sant Pere and Santa Lúcia. Other important works of art include a statue of the Verge dels Fillols that originally stood in the Seu Vella, and Santa Maria de la Candeleria, a 15th century Gothic piece showing Sant Blas attributed to the painter Mateu Ferrer. The church also houses the tomb of Ramon de Tàrrega and the figure of Sant Crist Trobat restored by Jaume Perelló. The Gothic door overlooking the Plaza Sant Josep carries the coat of arms of Berenguer de Gallart.

SANT MARTÍ

Sant Martí
Lleida
(Map D3 n°30)

Dating originally from the 12th century, this Romanesque church became the chapel of the Estudi General University in 1300 and the place where the most important academic events were held. It was converted into a barracks in 1648, during the Segadors Peasant Revolt, and was used as a municipal prison in the 19th century. In 1893, Bishop Messeguer Costa ordered its restoration as a church. Now, several cultural activities are celebrated.

Cultural Property of National Interest
(Generalitat de Catalunya).

MARIAN ACADEMY

Ever since it was founded in 1862, the Marian Academy has been a powerful symbol for the city. The large building itself is of extraordinary size and value, with its Neoclassical façade on which six crests stand out. Inside the building there are artistic treasures everywhere you look: the Noucentiste vestibule decorated with Greek marble, the imperial stairway, the theatre and, naturally, the chapel.

The chapel has been nicknamed the Sistine Chapel of Marian Art owing to the 300 m2 of frescos dating from 1871 that decorate the chapel. They are unique, not only for their artistic value, but also because this is the only place in the world where the whole life of the Virgin Mary is presented in artistic form. The chapel, in Florentine Gothic style, is presided over by the figure of the White Virgin. The white statue was sculpted from the wood of a linden tree, and its colour was the origin of the name of the Patron Saint of Lleida. Another important feature of this small sanctuary is its collection of wrought iron. Besides being the most complete collection in the city, it is unique for being the work of Antoni Guerra, considered the best 20th-century artist in his field.

LLEIDA MUSEUM

The Museum of Lleida, which incorporates the Lleida County and Diocesan Museums, opened its doors in November 2007 as the flagship of Lleida's museums. A tour around its more than 7000 square metres of exhibition space provides a great introduction to the city's history, starting with prehistoric times and continuing right through to the present day.

The works displayed at the museum come from the merger of two century-old collections and a desire to unite the items that represent the heritage of the city and its area of influence under one roof. One of these is the collection of sacred art from the Diocesan Museum, the most recent incarnation of the museum created in 1893 by Bishop Messeguer. The other is the archaeological collection of the Institute of Lleidan Studies (IEI), which traces its origins back to the Museum of Antiquities founded in the mid-19th century, whose collection passed into the hands of the IEI in 1942. The museum also houses the coin collection from the Provincial Council's Numismatic Department, along with some pieces from the so-called Cathedral Treasure. Among the 974 works of art and archaeological pieces on permanent display at the museum are items from the Bronze Age (from the Genó site in Aitona), the Iberian Era (the Gebut site in Soses) and the Roman period (a Roman villa from Romeiral, in Albesa).

There are also items from the Visigoth settlement at El Bovalar, including the outstanding baptismal font. Other interesting items include rock-crystal chess pieces from Ager (dating from the Fatimite period, 9th century), Romanesque altarpieces, stone sculptures from Seu Vella, the mural paintings of Pia Almoina, Gothic panel paintings from the Herrero studio, 14th century sculpture from what is known as the School of Lleida, and Flemish tapestries and clothes worn by Pope Calixtus III.

ART CENTRE LA PANERA

THE ART CENTRE OF LA PANERA IS A CULTURAL FACILITY THAT OFFERS AN OPPORTUNITY TO KEEP UP WITH THE MOST RECENT DEVELOPMENTS IN ART THROUGH A SERIES OF EXHIBITIONS AND ACTIVITY PROGRAMMES.

A commitment to support and promote contemporary art is backed up with guided visits for everybody and free access to a specialized reference library housed in the Document Centre.

The Centre's work is founded on the conviction that contemporary art represents an essential key to understanding the world we live in and the problems and issues that affect it, not only in terms of artistic creation but also throughout society at large.

At the same time, the Centre is designed as a platform for the creation and exhibition of the visual arts in Spain, with a view to building bridges between visual creativity and the creativity originating from other cultural fields.

THE OLD CORN EXCHANGE AND MARKET

The building that houses the Art Centre of La Panera dates back to the Consulate period of the 12th and 13th centuries, one of the most prosperous episodes in Medieval Lleida. El Almodí, as the building was then known, was the city's trading house and the place where many goods were traded, such as cereals, oil and grapes. The original colonnade from the Medieval building, a line of 21 stone columns rising to a height of 5.7 metres, still survives. In 1606, El Almodí was acquired by the Cathedral Canons, who enclosed it within a perimeter wall and built another floor above the original colonnade, giving the building the form it has today. It was used to store and sell the produce collected by the Canons, hence its present name, La Panera dels Canonges (The Canons' Pantry). With the seizure of the monasteries in 1835 it passed into the hands of the Paeria, or local government, which offered it to the army. In 1860 it became the cavalry barracks, and was subsequently used as a police station before being returned to the Paeria at the end of the 1980s. The decision was taken to turn it into an art centre, and recent refurbishment work has revealed the Medieval colonnade in all its glory.

JAUUME MORERA

MUSEO DE ARTE

The Jaume Morera Art Museum of Lleida is a public museum, whose mission is to bring together a collection of modern and contemporary art within where the contributions of Lleida's artists are appropriately contextualised. It also aims to conserve, study, interpret and exhibit this art as a way of explaining the history of modern and contemporary artistic manifestations and, through the deployment of a range of cultural services, to encourage and facilitate its visitors' understanding and critical appreciation in the contemplation and enjoyment of art. This mission is embodied in the resolute preservation and conservation of its collections, which span the whole of the twentieth century and are projected towards the twenty-first century, especially in the Museum's programme of temporary exhibitions and a wide reaching educative programme that is addressed at different public sectors.

The Museum is owned by the local Council but also benefits from the assistance of the Deputation of Lleida and the Ministry of Culture of the Generalitat de Catalunya.

TEMPORARY EXHIBITIONS

One of the key research and dissemination activities of Jaume Morera Art Museum is the organization of temporary exhibitions of its own design, in coordination with other museums and as the site of exhibitions that travel throughout Spain. The museum specializes mainly in exhibitions designed to provide a historical review of the main artistic tendencies of the 20th century and retrospective shows on well-known artists, particularly those connected with the city of Lleida.

THE WATER MUSEUM

Water has traditionally played an important role in Lleida, owing to its geographic location beside the River Segre. An extensive network of canals and waterways has been developed since the city was founded, making Lleida the centre of one of the largest irrigated areas in Spain. In fact, the Seròs Canal, a major source of hydroelectric power, passes through the city, which receives its drinking-water supply from the Pinyana Canal, the oldest canal still in use in Catalonia. This is a territory museum with different points of interest around the region.

MAIN BUILDING: LA CANADIENSE CAMP

Barcelona Traction, Light & Power Co. Ltd., informally known as "La Canadiense", built this camp in 1914 to house the labourers who came to the area to construct the Seròs Canal. La Canadiense set up in different parts of Catalonia to lay out the power grid in the region.

Since 2004, the newly restored building has been used as the Lleida Water Museum headquarters.

On display here is the permanent exhibition "The Force of Water. Dr. Pearson and the Construction Work on La Canadiense in Lleida", which reflects the basic role played by Lleida in the production of hydroelectric power, thanks to the work done by engineer Dr. Pearson and the hydroelectric power company known as La Canadiense.

PLA DE L'AIGUA UNDERGROUND RESERVOIR

Lleida's drinking-water museum. It is a large underground reservoir in the heart of Lleida that was built in 1784 to supply the city with drinking water as a way of overcoming the deficiencies of Medieval installations and fighting epidemics. The large reservoir has 25 stone pillars and a capacity of 9 million litres (C/ Múrcia 10 - Plaça del Dipòsit).

ICE WELLS

Located in the northern and coldest part of the Seu Vella's hill, ideal for ice conservation. Built in the 17th century, the biggest has a capacity of 842 m<sup>3</sup> and 500 m<sup>3</sup> the small one. They were restored in 1994.

THE BUILDING

The modern Enric Granados Municipal Auditorium was designed by Lleidan architects Ramon Artigues and Ramon Sanabria. Many other professionals also participated in the construction process, including Higiní Arau, who holds a PhD in Acoustic Physics. Of note is the prismatic shape of the triple façade and the way the roof becomes a fourth façade when viewed from the Seu Vella. Built with slabs of natural stone to create an austere effect, the air chamber has rigid insulation to protect the building's excellent acoustics. Don't miss a visit to the archaeological remains in the basement.

SYMPHONY HALL

The Symphony Hall is located on the ground floor and is the larger of the two auditoriums, with an area of 880 m2 and seating for 803 people. The spectacular vaulted ceiling is covered with varnished cedar panels.

CHAMBER MUSIC HALL

The second hall of the auditorium is located in the first basement and is used mainly for chamber music. It has an area of 360 m2 and seats 245.

EASTER HOLIDAYS

Holy Week in Lleida has traditionally been characterized by the penitential processions which began in the 14th century and reached the height of their splendour four centuries later. Two processions are considered the highlight of Holy Week in Lleida.

The procession of the Virgin of Sorrows, which dates from 1753, leaves at 8 pm on Palm Sunday from the Oratory of the Virgin of Sorrows in Carrer Cavallers, seat of the Congregation of Sorrows. The spectacular religious parade, headed by the Armats (Roman squadrons), features floats that represent the seven sorrows of the Virgin Mary, the robes of the different brotherhoods, the popular Sant Llorenç float bearers and the tabernacle of the Virgin of Sorrows.

On the night of Good Friday, the solemn and penitential procession of the Holy Burial, organized by the Congregation of the Holy Blood, leaves from the Church of the Holy Blood. The procession, headed by the Armats de la Sang, is an overwhelming display of imagery on the passion and death of Christ, including the statue of the Prostrate Christ and the tabernacle of the Virgin of Solitude..

2018/5/4 - 6 PUPPETS

XXIX INTERNATIONAL PUPPET THEATRE FESTIVAL

The Puppet Festival fills the most emblematic parts of Lleida's main pedestrian thoroughfare (Plaça Paeria, Plaça Sant Francesc, the courtyard of the IEI and Plaça de l'Hort de Santa Teresa) and the city's theatres with puppet shows for children and adults.

Held right before the Summer Festival, this unique event attracts puppet companies and cultural programmers from all over the world. The people of Lleida and visitors will enjoy over 25 shows and 70 performances in different spaces around the city. Companies from all over the world offer a complete programme for all ages, with some performances free of charge and others at low prices.

The festival organizers have also arranged different cultural activities such as exhibitions, a photography competition, puppet workshops and much more. All these features make the festival a one-of-a-kind activity in Spain.

Lleida has a regular theatre season. The Llotja, the Escorxador Municipal Theatre, the Teatre Principal and the former Convent of Santa Teresa offer a wide range of performances all the year.

MAY FESTIVALS

The May Festival is celebrated on 11 May every year in honour of Sant Anastasi, a Roman soldier who was born in Lleida and martyred in Badalona by order of Emperor Diocletian in the year AD 303.

The wide range of popular activities includes the spectacular floral offering and the battle of the flowers, both of which are held on 11 May.

A parade is held on the Rambla de Ferran with many floats from which people throw confetti and streamers at the public. Another attraction is the ubiquitous presence of the emblematic dragon, Lo Marraco, and the oldest pair of giants in Catalonia, Marc Antonio and Cleopatra, which were made in 1840.

The festa major ends just as colourfully as it began, with a spectacular fireworks display.

MOORS & CHRISTIANS

XXIII MOORS AND CHRISTIANS FESTIVAL

With the Moors and Christians Festival, the city has proudly recovered a lost tradition that dates from the 12th century.

The Festival starts on Saturday in la Paeria square in order to finish on Sunday with the last battle.

On Sunday morning, child's procession take place and then presented the Lleida's Band playing traditional music. In the afternoon the groups of Moors and Christians are joined in the Seu Vella to parade with their colorful uniforms in the main streets. Before nightfall, they start a satirical speech that cause a verbal confrontation that follows the spectacular battle, with the incomparable framework of the Seu Vella, the castle that crowns the city as a backdrop.

In September, they also recreate the ceremony and banquet for the royal wedding of Ramon Berenguer IV and Petronilla, in the hill of the Seu Vella.

XXXIX APLEC DEL CARAGOL DE LLEIDA (SNAIL FESTIVAL)

The Aplec del Caragol, or Snail Festival, takes place at the end of May and marks the end of this busy month. Declared a Festival of National Interest for Tourism and a Traditional Festival of National Interest, the Snail Festival is the city's most popular festival and one of the most important leisure-gastronomic celebrations in Catalonia. Camps Elisis Park is the scenario of a three-day snail-eating feast, where 12,200 participants in 100 social clubs stake out their separate plots of land and settle down to eat more than 12 tonnes of snails.

Many delicious menus and succulent snail specialties are available for visitors in the restaurant area at reasonable prices. Original competitions such as snail races, and more traditional ones such as allioli (sauce) hand made, together with the constant presence of bands marching in the streets, create an animated atmosphere that spreads throughout the city.

Thousands of visitors from all over come to join the fun. The parade of the social clubs on the last day of the festival is a lively affair, especially as it crosses Pont Vell bridge. The week before the festival, the social clubs also organize a number of different cultural events.

SAINT JAMES

PILGRIMAGE OF SAINT JAMES LAMPS

The Pilgrimage of Saint James (Sant Jaume) is another popular summer event. On 24 July, the boys and girls of the city congregate at the Church of Carme to start their pilgrimage to the New Cathedral.

All of them carry a little lamp to commemorate the legend that describes how St. James the Apostle came to Lleida to preach the Gospel. Just as he was walking between the Carrer Major and Carrer Cavallers, a thorn got stuck in his foot. It was night time and the saint could not remove the painful thorn until an angel appeared with a lamp to solve the problem. On that spot, the Peu del Romeu chapel was built (see page 21), which contains a sculpture that represents the scene.

FESTIVALS

When all the grapes have been harvested, festivities are again organized to celebrate the feast day of St. Michael, Lleida's second patron saint (29 September). The Autumn Festival is held at the same time as the Sant Miquel Agriculture and Livestock Fair.

The festival consists of a wide variety of cultural events, including examples of local folklore, such as sardana dances, the ball dels bastons (the dance of the sticks) and Habanera sea shanties, as well as musical and theatrical performances.

For lovers of fireworks, there is the Big Night of Beasts and Fire on Blondel avenue, an immense parade of the best Catalan beasts, including the local dragon, Lo Marraco, and groups of devils that dance in the street amidst fireworks and sparks. We recommend you wear a headscarf or hat when you come!

2018/10/27 - 28
X LLEIDA

The city of Lleida celebrates its Wine Festival in autumn, which coincides with the grape harvest and the first wine of the season. The festival welcomes the wine cellars of the Costers del Segre Designation of Origin, which forms part of the Lleida Wine Route.

The wine festival will be just that: a feast for wine lovers eager to taste new and traditional wines, whites, reds and rosés... Parallel activities have also been organized such as the musical performances.

LLEIDA, THE NATURAL FLAVOURS

Another distinguishing feature of Lleida is its traditional cuisine. The flavours, aromas and textures produced by the kitchens in the area are the bounty of this generous, fertile land. Don't forget that this is one of the leading fruit-producing areas in Europe (producing half the pears grown in Spain). Or that Lleida Province is a major pig-rearing region.

And don't hesitate to buy some of the delicious products in our "larder": extra virgin olive oil made exclusively from Arbeca olives with the Les Garrigues protected designation of origin (PDO); and sample the excellence of our DO Costers del Segre wine (Lleida is member of the Lleida Wine Route). Mention must also be made of the great variety of wild mushrooms available in season; and the delicious fruit, vegetables (and succulent snails!) from the market gardens surrounding the city.

It's time to visit one of the city's many restaurants. If you prefer something a little more traditional, you can try the snails a la llauna (cooked on a metal tray over a wood-burning fire), accompanied by all i oli garlic mayonnaise or vinaigrette. They can also be cooked a la gormanta, a la brutasca, with ratatouille, etc. As a main course, don't miss the charcoal-grilled meats (longaniza pork sausage, lamb, ribs, quail, etc.) with escalivada (roasted pepper, onion and aubergine) and ember-baked potatoes al caliu.

However, if you have a taste for more elaborate dishes, you will find that Lleida is a city of chefs. Original signature cuisine can be found on the menu at restaurants all over the city. Lleida has its own hotel and catering school and also hosts the prestigious Àngel Moncusí cooking awards. So why not be bold and try a fruit speciality or enjoy salt cod, the fish dish par excellence in inland regions? In Lleida you can find it a la llauna, au gratin with apple and garlic mayonnaise, with ratatouille or with honey. If you have a sweet tooth, Lleida has many master chocolate makers and pastry chefs. One of the most typical products prepared in the ovens of the city's bakeries is coca de recapite, a kind of flatbread which is topped with escalivada, tuna or cod and then baked.

An enjoyable way of trying out some of Lleida's pastry and confectionary is to follow the festival calendar and try the traditional fare: panellets sweetmeats for All Saints' Day, Easter mona cakes during Holy Week and sweet coca flatbread with crystallized fruit for the feast of Sant Joan or Delicious Granados, an almond sweet named in honour of the famous musician and composer who was born in Lleida.

BUSINESS & EVENTS

SEGRE RIVER, THE RIVER ROAD, THE CAMPS ELISIS AND THE MITJANA

Lleida also offers sports lovers the opportunity to engage in outdoor pursuits within the city itself, with large open spaces of immeasurable ecological value. Far from losing its identity, the Huerta, the green belt that surrounds the city, retains a countryside feel, making it ideal for cycling, jogging or simply taking a stroll.

Right in the heart of the city, River Segre Park is another space that is enjoyed by sports lovers. The banks and the road of the river are a lovely places to enjoy.

Another interesting outdoor area is Camps Elisis Park, which combines a wealth of botanical species with some remarkable sculptures and buildings, such as the Chalet and Temple de la Música (both in the Noucentisme style), and the Aquarium, a brick building in the Modernist style with glazed tiles and carved beams, its gardens decorated with sculptures.

However, the real jewel in Lleida's ecological crown is La Mitjana, an amazing water park declared an Area of Natural Interest in 1979. The unique microclimate has created the perfect environment for the emergence of a leafy river woodland with a wide range of flora including poplar, elder, ash, willow, a variety of shrubs, tamarisk trees and bramble, water-lilies, reeds, yellow irises and bulrushes. These in turn provide a rich habitat for a variety of fauna. Furthermore, in the leisure area, we find the Interpretation Center La Mitjana offering guided tours and houses a permanent exhibition and the audiovisual of the park.
